The Gents Look Ahead

Dr. Joe J. Mickle

That the Gentlemen look with pride to an ever-expanding athletic program is fitting tribute to the far-sighted leadership of Centenary President and Number One basketball fan, Dr. Joe J. Mickle.

The acquisition of Orvis Sigler to head the Athletic Department is simply another indication, for growth and accomplishment have marked every phase of college endeavor in the thirteen-year period since the native Texan assumed its presidency.

A prominent educator for the past twenty-three years and a nationally-known expert on Far Eastern affairs, Dr. Mickle helped establish the current Centenary building program in 1945, which has since seen the erection of eight modern buildings and an over-all campus beautification program. Soon after its completion, arrangements were made for the Gents to move their home court schedule to spacious Hirsch Memorial Youth Center. Offering possibly the South's finest facilities, the giant arena will seat 10,800 fans.

Yes . . . the Gents will continue to look ahead!

The Outlook From Here

Prospectus For 1958-59

Fully realizing that a planned advancement to a full major college basketball program must be a step-by-step proposition, the outlook for this year's edition of Centenary Gentlemen is a precarious one.

After adopting the Southeastern Conference rules of eligibility, the next step was to establish the school's first bonafide Freshman program, thus closing the door on the small college practice of allowing a first year man to participate with a varsity team.

The undertaking of the most ambitious schedule in history was next, as the Gents will face the likes of Texas A. & M., Memphis State, Tulane, Oklahoma City, Loyola of New Orleans, Florida State and a host of others. In addition to this, Centenary will again play host to a better-than-ever Gulf South Classic.

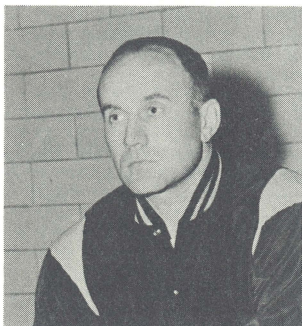

So to say the youthful charges of Coach Orvis Sigler will have their work cut out for them, is the understatement of the year. Graduation took a heavy toll from last year's team that managed a 14-12 record, with the scoring punch of Schrimsher, Landeros, and Williams among the missing. Of the returnees, there are just too many IFS.

The biggest problem confronting Coach Sigler is an offensive front line, with the only returning starter at the spot being senior Gerald Martello. A six-foot, eight-inch sophomore, Jackie Crawford could fill the center slot, if he can adapt himself to varsity play patterns and is fully recovered from a broken ankle sustained last year. The other post is up for grabs, with three seniors battling for the job. Although seeing a lot of action, neither Cecil Rhodes nor Tom Hubble of the trio was a starter. The third man, Robert Scott, is returning to action after a four-year stint in the Air Force. Just how much the lay-off will affect him is another of those ifs. Four tall and rugged sophomores, Ralph Mason, Andy Teal, Wayne Dubose and Jerry Wiggins make the climb to the varsity, but due to a spotty frosh schedule last year, little is known of their true ability.

The one bright spot thus far, is the operation of four slick backcourt artists. All are very evenly matched, with Leon Shaw and Billy Eubanks playing together, while Bobby Schulman and Larry Greene form the other team. Shaw, Schulman and Greene are returning lettermen, with Eubanks a transfer. Gifted with speed and know-how, they all have the one drawback of a lack of consistent scoring punch.

Again that word IF crops up, could a couple of the senior frontliners come through, and Crawford play to his potential, the Gents will accept most of their challenges successfully. However, IF they don't, it could be the coldest winter in many a year for the Gentlemen from the Deep South.

From the Banks of the Hudson To the Shores of the Red

Orvis Sigler

Whenever any organization makes a decision to expand and move forward, the prime requisite of their planned operation is to engage a person with the ability to build a foundation, and the experience to carry it to completion.

It was with this in mind, that the officials of Centenary College engaged as Athletic Director and Head Basketball Coach, Orvis U. Sigler.

For a coach who had spent the past four years as head mentor at the United States Military Academy, doing much the same building job, and seeing the fruits of his labor pay off last season with a prized win over Navy, the decision to move to a comparatively small college was an extremely difficult one to make. His youthful West Pointers, one senior, one junior and ten sophomores had completed a 13-12 season in 1958. His Plebe team, due to move to the varsity, posted an all-time academy record of 19 wins and 2 defeats. It was also under the leadership of Sigler that the Black Knights participated in their first holiday tournament. But, as in the past history of his coaching, the urge to expand, build, and of course, better his own future, brings the genial coach to Centenary.

When in battle with the athletically despised Navy, the new Gent mentor must have suffered many qualms, for shortly after entering Drury College, World War II came along, and Sigler spent three years as a dive bomber pilot in the Naval Air Corps, seeing action in the South Pacific.

Following the conflict, the native Missourian returned and graduated from Southwest Missouri State College in 1948, and immediately accepted a high school coaching job in his home state. Sigler wound up a four-year building stay that progressed from a one-win season previous to his taking the job, to a final 22-7 mark. This fine record earned him a promotion to assistant coach and graduate manager of athletics at his college alma mater, under the now head coach at Memphis State, Bob Vanatta.

After helping coach the Southwesterners to a national NAIA championship in 1952-53, the new Gent coach took the reins at Missouri Valley College the following year, completing the season with a 14-9 mark, and a fine 10-2 record in conference play. Army officials, impressed with his record, offered the position at the Academy, where he remained until this season.

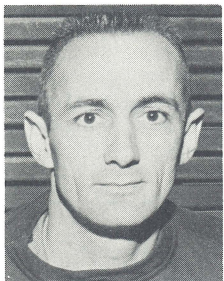

A firm believer of fundamentals and conditioned athletes, the 36-year-old coach has his task cut out for him once again, as he is faced with a youthful, inexperienced Centenary squad.

A devoted family man, Coach Sigler and his wife, Doris, are the proud parents of three fine children, Susan 13, Sally 8, and Steven 2, all now residing in Shreveport.

Douglas Mooty, Freshman Coach

The likeable, middle brother of Centenary's famous coaching brothers, this year will head the first official freshman squad.

A graduate of Centenary in 1951, Doug spent two years in the Marine Corps, including nine months in Korea, before launching his coaching career.

In his first two seasons at Belcher High School, his charges amassed a total of 46 wins as against 20 losses, earning him the head coaching job at the newly consolidated North Caddo High School in 1955. After spending one year at North Caddo, Mooty accepted an instructor of Physical Education position at Centenary.

In this capacity he received his first taste of college coaching, taking over the varsity for a four-game stretch, while older brother, and Head Coach, Harold was ill. His debut was marred by a loss to Mississippi Southern, but finished in a flurry with wins over Southeast Louisiana College, Memphis State and McNeese. Once again he took over from brother Harold in mid-season of 57-58, when recurring stomach trouble and an operation forced the head mentor to cut down his activity. Harold now, by doctor's orders to quit the strain of college coaching, is at Terrebonne High School in Houma, La., while younger brother Joe is coaching at St. Martin's Episcopal, in New Orleans.

Doug is married to the former Miss Pat Volentine, and is the proud father of a year-old son, James Douglas Mooty, Jr.

Let's Meet the Gents

GERALD MARTELLO . . . Letterman

Senior—Ht. 6'2"—Wt. 195—Age 21

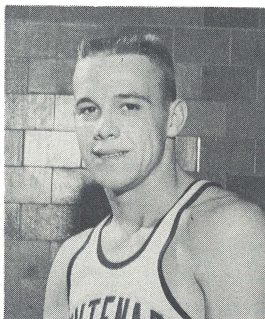

This Natchez, Mississippi, native is counted on carrying a big portion of the Gents' scoring load this season. Possessor of a fine jump shot, Martello appeared in 25 of the Gents' 26 games last year, scoring 180 points, for a 7.2 per game average. An aggressive rebounder despite his medium height, he must overcome his over-anxiousness which gave him the dubious honor of leading the 1957-58 squad in personal foul departures. Extremely popular with his teammates, "Tooley" was a three-year All-State high school performer, playing in the first Mississippi prep All-Star classic. Team's biggest eater, under order to cut the pizza menu.

LEON SHAW . . . Letterman

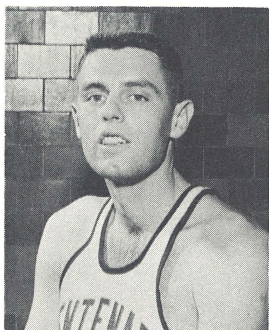

Senior—Ht. 5'10"—Wt. 160—Age 21

The "Go-Man" in Coach Sigler's fast break patterns, "Gabby," as he is very appropriately known on and off the court, is a real "take charge guy." Possessing exceptional speed, he is a good passer and dribbler, and is at his scoring best on the drive. Very durable, the Oklahoman was the only man to appear in all 26 Gent games last year, and was fifth leading scorer with a 9.2 average. Listing his hobby as girls, the likeable youngster was a second-team All-American Junior College selection while at Murray Junior College in his home state. Expected to draw top defensive assignment, especially against any fast break.

CECIL RHODES . . . Letterman

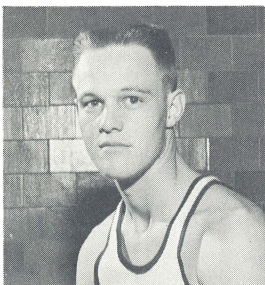

Senior—Ht. 6'4"—Wt. 195—Age 22

Always possessed with great potential, the Gents could have a fine year if "Moses" come into his own. A fourth year man on the Gents' roster, Rhodes has shown flashes of brilliance both at the hoop and on the boards, and was of much more value in his 20 past season's appearances than a 3.1 scoring average would indicate. Hooks well from off the post, and can mix it up inside when the going gets rough. A three-sport star at Fair Park High School, winning All-City and All-District awards in basketball, football and baseball. Performs on the Centenary diamond squad in the spring, waving a heavy timber at opposing pitchers. Majoring in Physical Education.

BOBBY SCHULMAN . . .

Senior—Ht. 5'11"—Wt. 155—Age 22

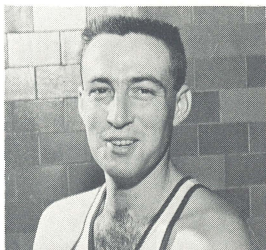

Another veteran scheduled for heavy duty this year. An excellent ball-handler, "Bo" has the speed and know-how to operate either in the back-court or up front. Has a fine touch from the outside and needs but a split second to get set. Saw considerable action last year, appearing in 23 games and hitting for a 5.5 game average. His greatest asset is the attitude of a boy who "came to play." Hailing from Dothan, Alabama, Bobby was an All-State basketball star, but also leans heavily to the diamond sport, winning a prep batting championship and lists his sports idol as Ted Williams.

TOM HUBBLE . . . Letterman

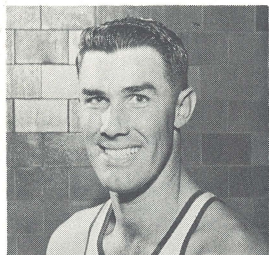

Senior—Ht. 6'3"—Wt. 175—Age 21

A first line replacement last year, Tom is expected to battle for a starting berth this season. A strong performer on the boards, his size and determination make it tough for the opposition to push him around. Has had trouble finding the scoring range, but early workouts indicate he might have found his eye. Was a three letterman in high school, with numerals in football, basketball and baseball. Was born in Alsey, Illinois, but now lists his home as Shreveport. Always been a very popular student on the campus.

ROBERT SCOTT . . . Letterman

Senior—Ht. 6'3"—Wt. 180—Age 26

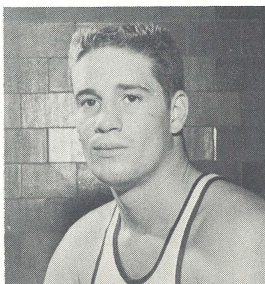

The oldest man on the Gent roster, returning to finish his education after a stint in the Air Force. Lettered for the Crimson and White in 1954, now showing little effect from the layoff, as he is considered a good bet to start. A fine shot from anywhere around the circle, Bob can also tip with the best of them on the offensive boards. One of the few native Louisianians on the roster, he played his high school basketball at Ringgold, winning several all-tournament honors. Lost none of his touch while in the service, garnering an all-tourney post at far-away Juneau, Alaska.

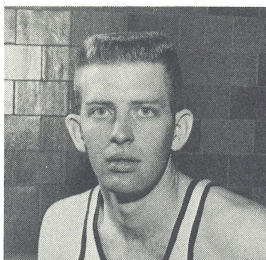

LARRY GREENE . . . Letterman

Junior—Ht. 5'10"—Wt. 175—Age 22

Fast, tireless, and aggressive is possibly the best description of the hard-working Gent playmaker. While only a sophomore last year, Larry saw action in 25 of 26 skirmishes, and although a mite too aggressive, as his five-foul ejections indicate, he never-the-less is a crowd pleaser. The Fenton, Louisiana, principal's son scored at a 4.8 clip, while rebounding at the same figure in 57-58, and is expected to greatly improve that total. Always a threat on defense with his ball-stealing antics, the 5-foot, 10-incher likes to pop at the bucket, with a surprisingly good hook shot his best inside weapon.

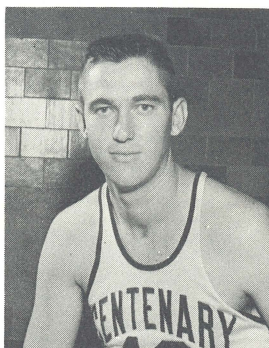

BILLY EUBANKS . . . Transfer
Junior—Ht. 5'11"—Wt. 150—Age 22

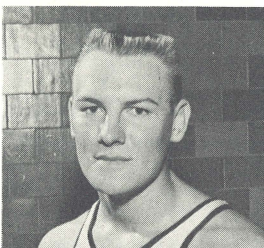

After sitting out last year at Centenary, due to a freshman season at Alabama, this quiet, unassuming young man will in all probability "quarterback" the Gents' offense. While watching play, you hardly know he's around until he gets his hands on the ball, but then he takes command. Passing off, setting a pick, bringing the ball back out, the "Weasel" directs traffic with all the poise of a Times Square cop. Possesses a deadly set shot from the circle, but most always stays back to slow down a possible fast break. A real team player.

JACKIE CRAWFORD . . . Transfer
Sophomore—Ht. 6'8"—Wt. 215—Age 21

This talented youngster could very easily hold the key to a good or bad year for the 1958-59 Gents. Possessing all the tools to become an outstanding performer, it is merely a question of just how quickly he can adapt himself to the more intricate patterns of varsity competition. Considerably more agile than a goodly number of players his size, the Grand Prairie Texan set all kinds of prep scoring records, averaging 27.5 points per game, while being named to a number of All-State squads. One of a family of six, Jackie is very proud of his younger brothers' sporting accomplishments, and is anxious to continue the lead in an athletic family. Seems to show no ill effects from a broken ankle suffered last year, and improves each day in practice.

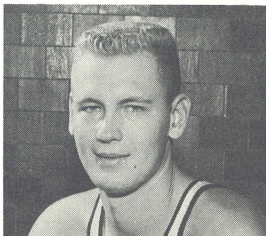

RALPH MASON . . . Up From Frosh
Sophomore—Ht. 6'4"—Wt. 200—Age 19

One of four greenlings to earn promotion to the varsity this year, "Stretch" comes with all the credentials of a future star. Hailing from Selma, Alabama, he won eight letters in his prep career, including All-State football honors at end, plus a post on the South Alabama cage All-Stars. Possibly the most aggressive player in early workouts, seeing a lot of action on the post. Still suffering from sophomoritis, a degree of uncertainty, the rugged frontliner could be a pleasant surprise as the season rolls along.

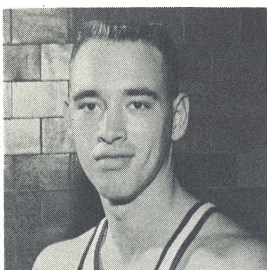

ANDY TEAL . . . Up From Frosh
Sophomore—6'7"—Wt. 210—Age 19

The second tallest man on the squad, up for a try at the varsity after a fine freshman season. The young skyscraper played his high school basketball at East Nashville High in Tennessee, gaining three letters, as well as a trio in football. Can do a job on the boards, but must develop confidence in his shooting. A serious student, listing his majors as Sociology, Psychology and Physical Education. Like a number of his teammates, Andy was born in Alabama.

JERRY WIGGINS . . . Up From Frosh

Sophomore—Ht. 6'5"—Wt. 200—Age 19

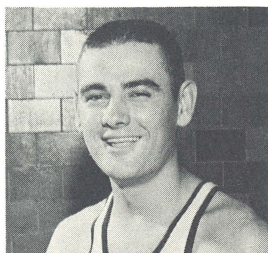

Another of the tall crop of freshmen making the jump to a varsity post, "Wigg" is a product of Coach Elton Womack of Hall Summit High, at Hall Summit, Louisiana. While in high school, Jerry was an All-State basketball nominee two years running, as well as winning All-District honors four times. A good shot from the key and shows adeptness at sweeping the boards. Still may be a year away, but will gain valuable experience this season. A quiet, well-liked boy, holds a sportsmanship award in his prep tournament record.

WAYNE DUBOSE—Up From Frosh

Sophomore—Ht. 6'6"—Wt. 195—Age 21

An increased spark of confidence is all that's needed to make the "Spider" prime varsity material. Swift and agile for all of his 6'6", the Selma, Alabama, youth put together a brilliant high school record. Scored 50 points in a prep contest, helping his Suttle High School team set an all-time mark of 112 points. An All-State performer in 1956, played in '57 All-Star game. Has a good eye inside, enjoys mixing it on defense. A through and through Southerner, lists frog gigging as his favorite hobby.
